BASIC LEARNING EVENT
TIME-BASED MEDIA

Non-knowledge, Laughter and the Moving Image
Tu 10:00 - 14:00 (Room 11, LE)
Start: 10.04.18
Open for all Students.

In this seminar we will examine the moving image and the laughing body’s potential to overturn our habitual course and change the order of things. We will look into situations in which bodies, images and sounds speak through unstable and unforeseen movements and encounters. How is this relevant today in a time with big data and algorithms? Like the sudden invasion of laughter that for a moment sets us off course, this seminar will explore ways in which we communicate beyond instrumental language, subjectivity and reason, to experience what the moving image and our bodies can do and how they can teach us about the limits of our thinking. The seminar includes excursions, screenings, and discussions, together and with invited guests.

BASIC LEARNING EVENT
GRAPHIC ART / TYPOGRAPHY / PHOTOGRAPHY

Folgendes
Tu 18:00 - 22:00
(Library anteroom LE, Folgendes-Projectroom LE)
This event is explicitly intended for students of all departments.

Credits will be awarded for cooperation in the team and for regular participation in the FOLGENDES events.
Registration by e-mail: mutter@phaenomedia.org

FOLGENDES is a series of events initiated by students. Over the past nine years, four teams of students, one after the other, have devoted themselves to this weekly event, as hosts and exhibition makers.

The starting point for their actions was – and still is, their desire to create a living and vibrant place of exchange and discourse at the heart of the HFBK. From the beginning onwards, FOLGENDES, with its rapid pacing of events, the ephemeral character of its exhibitions, and its cheap drinks, but above all, because of the artist interviews, often conducted by the students themselves, occupied – and continue to occupy – a fixed place in the heads of many. The space of play for action, a semi-open space which, over time, has temporarily spilled out of the halls of the historic university building into Lerchenfeld, can be regarded as a metaphor for the event itself. This space and its set parameters has often itself provided the inspiration for artistic works, yet it appears at the same time to be a transparent space that can be looked upon in different ways, both in the wider sense and in the real-space sense. Instead of clinging to what has been achieved or compulsively confirming expectations, FOLGENDES has reliably shown itself to be a sounding-board for present day and generation-specific issues and recent artistic developments.
MODULE - Introduction on artistic practice: DESIGN

Studio work in the basic class: short projects, project discussions, presentations, group discussions
Mo 10:00 - 17:00 (Room 41-43 WA)

In the studio, you will work together on project assignments, getting to know basic methods of design in a practical way. Step-by-step, you will be developing your own way of thinking and working, plus techniques for finding ideas, developing concepts, and visualising and communicating a project. The HfBK workshops will support you in creating prototypes and products, and with practical project supervision. The process will take you from applied work – answering set questions – to developing your own projects, and posing and answering questions for yourself.

Individual tutorial
Mo 17:00 - 19:00
Tu 13:00 - 18:00
Th 10:00 - 12:00 (Room 31, WA)
Please register by e-mail.

Tu 10:00 - 13:00 (Room 41 WA)
Start: 06.11.17
Please register by e-mail.
Students of other classes and semesters welcome.

In 1-2-3-GO, we will discuss the phases of the design process, and will present designers and design-related themes. Examples of themes include: finding ideas, concept development, visualising, constructing models, turning 2D into 3D, presentation, production, design manifestos, colour, light, kinetics, space, sustainability, design & politics, sound and design, independence.

Project advice for experimental feature films, documentary films, essay films, and hybrid innovative moving image forms: finding ideas, developing material, production preparation, financing, montage advice, distribution, and discourse.

Colloquium / Seminar » There are no rules «
Tu 15:00 - 19:00 (Room E12, Kino Fi35), fortnightly

Artistic experimentation with films and narratives will be developed and reflected in a multifaceted way, in the context of the auteur film and innovative forms of the moving image. Approaches to one's own work or joint investigations will emerge in a genre-spanning way. In this semester, individual projects and compact workshops will be developed, beginning with documentary, fictional, and essayistic processes, with video art and collective working forms. The colloquium will be supplemented by events featuring guests from the film industry.

Semester topic: Jean-Luc Godard as an essayist
Introductory event: Tu, 17. 04.18

https://www.kurzfilmtage.de
Dates: 03.05.-08.05.18
Registration now.
Workshop: “Offensively Experimental” - collective long film project
Dates will be announced via email and information sheet at Finkenau

The collective film “Dazu den Satan zwingen” will be presented at the Internationales Filmfest Hamburg on the 7.10, in a filmic/political linkup with the WIKI “Innovative Filme Machen” (https://ifm.hfbk.net/mediawiki/index.php/Hauptseite). In connection with a festival panel discussion, and in a collaboration with the “Woche der Kritik” (“Criticism Week”) the film will be discussed at the HFF München, Munich, in March 2018.

About the content: If one ceases to banish experimenting with the moving image to the status of a niche activity and recognizes its cultural and social urgency, it becomes necessary to address the restrictive contexts offensively. We work publicly with the “operative portrait film,” with the film critic, actor, and legal expert Dietrich Kuhlbrodt as an avatar. Very different approaches and genres are combined in this polyphonic long film. In connection with this, we will look for appropriate, new praxis forms for filmic/political action.

The World as a Remix or The Art of Collage:
Essay Films, Found Footage Films and Video Essays (Continuation)
Jointly with Nora Moschüring
Th 10:00 - 14:00 (Room Kino Fi35)
Start: 05.04.18

Copy & paste existed before the Internet. The essay film also predates the net, dating from the time when it became technically possible to simply use found material for oneself. Today, the number of “usable” images has been enormously increased by the Internet.
... And hasn’t it been to long since the case that images are quite simply part of our reality, and thus material eligible for use? After all, if our world is composed of images that can be seen everywhere and “owned” at all times — images that depict our reality, but at the same time create a reality of their own – is not image material also of a documentary character per se?

At home with Danquart: André Siegers
The invention of supposed reality through filmic realism
Blockseminar 15.05. - 18.05.18
10:00 - 17:00 (Room Kino Fi35)

In this block seminar, we will explore one of the most conventional yet at the same time the most slippery concepts of film history: Realism. Instead of looking at the features of a realistic film, we will ask what it means to understand a film as realistic. Thus, we will not primarily be concerned with definitions, but how specific effects and significances can be produced that we interpret as realistic. We will try to detect the processes of realism; in doing so, we will, almost incidentally, soften certain boundary lines between, for instance, the documentary and fictional spheres.
The concept of “realism” is to be understood as a kind of visual aid, in order to formulate more acute questions on the composition of the relationship between film and the extrafilmic world that it references. These are associated with questions concerned with the relationship between specific aesthetic processes and their ideological and political implications. Realism as a form of ruling within the image space?

The intention is to discuss the “realism” mode with reference to film and extract examples whose origins range from the early history of film to contemporary cinema. The idea is to understand it as a process of reproducing existing relationships, but also to present the possibilities it offers to open up new and suppressed image spaces, and to talk about the art of not, to such an extent, being ruled by them.

Group tutorial and Film workshop
Mo 10:00 - 15:00 (Room Kino Fi35)
Start: Mo, 02.04.18
Dates: after registering for the seminar.
Open discussion of student film projects and plans

Individual tutorial
Mo 15:00 - 19:00
Tu 10:00 - 19:00 (Room E7 Fi35)
Start: Mo, 02.04.18
Individual appointment by arrangement
Film projects of all types, for all semesters and departments of study

Pioneers of art film: The Swinging Sixties
Mo 10:00-15:00 (Room Kino Fi35)
Start: Mo, 02.04.18
Regular participation and presenting one’s own work in the individual tutorial are requirements for the development and support of joint film plans.

In this series of events, we will address selected filmic works that reveal the visionary power that originally made our medium unique.
We will investigate the special creative modes of their implementation and research the possibilities for applying them to our own film creations. Significant figures for this semester include: Federico Fellini, Antonio Pietrangeli, Ken Russell.

(Room Kino Fi35)
Start: 04.04.18

In the moment of awakening, what has gone before echoes, whilst the now collects and will soon find an order for itself.

In this semester, we will look at montage issues. We will watch films by Serra, Heise, and others. The editing process for student projects will be discussed, and there will be a practical exercise.

How do we look at our material, and how can we understand it?

How do I write as an artist?
Mo 16:00 - 20:00 (Raum 17 WA)
Start: 16.04.18
End: 14.05.18

This event is intended for students who understand text as part of their artistic work, and for those who regard writing as a pleasure as well as those who write because they have to.
This event is limited to 25 participants.
First come, first served!

How can writing be understood as part of artistic activity?
How might this writing move with the activity, instead of covering it over and fixing it? How does the text escape the gesture of knowing how the wind blows?
What price do I pay for puffing up my actions in writing?
Where does jargon begin? And what effect does using it have on my actions?
What happens when I write down what I am going to do?
Can a plan be described whose goal is to be missed?

Ziemlich schönste Aussichten, part II
The continuation from the WS
Tu 15:00 - 18:00
Place: Hafen City.
Start: 10.04.18 at 15:00 (Room 21 WA)
Open for all participants

"Ziemlich schönste Aussichten" is the name of a project that has been running in the Hafen City for 4 months. In direct proximity to a centre for refugees, Karin Haenlein and Jan Köchermann used wood to construct a space between two containers. The inhabitants of the centre opposite could see the location from their apartments. Anyone who wished to was permitted to help. Black tea from a samovar – heated with charcoal – also made the place into a social attraction and meeting place, especially for the many children. For some time now, various activities have taken place there on a regular basis, such as painting workshops, cinema evenings, or bicycle repair afternoons.

This seminar will be concerned with the development of ideas and concepts that expand the existing structure either architectonically/sculpturally or through various possible events. It is hoped that the practical exploration and implementation on site will create possibilities for involvement by the residents of the refugee centre.

The intention is that, following a short planning phase at the Hochschule, the seminar will take place primarily on site in the Hafen City.

DIY Seminar: See the gap – the hole as an asset, part II
With Dörte Habighorst and Anabela Angelovska

Dates: 14.04. / 15.04.18 und 21.04. / 22.04.18, each time 11:00 - 17:00 (Room 213 ab LE)
This seminar is intended for students of ALL departments.

In the continuity editing of classical feature films, montage connects space and time. It aims to achieve a dramatically conceived continuity and to convey this to the viewers.

In contrast to this, the essay film works with the gap, the pause, the outset, and indicates the presence of an authorship.

This way of working, which equates to the destruction of a narrative illusion, makes the viewers aware of an omission, throwing them back upon themselves. Identification with the protagonist is replaced by reflection upon the medium, the form, or the here and now. The authors’ approach of working with gaps rather than concealing them enables new experiences that permit other possibilities of insight.

Does this method permit the establishing of a political and aesthetic formation in which fragmentation is permitted to emerge?

In the first part of our block seminar, we will discuss this with reference to the essayistic film, and investigate individual films together from this perspective. Following this, in the second part of our block seminar, we would like to discuss your artworks created in the context of the project.

What do we show? What do we not show? How is your authorship formed in montage?

We aim to incorporate a number of different theoretical and artistic positions into our selection of materials, such as Chris Marker, Dušan Makavejev, Marguerite Duras, Philip Scheffner, Alexander Kluge, Theodor W. Adorno, Pier Paolo Pasolini, Roland Barth, Raymond Bellour, William J. T. Mitchell.
STUDY SUBJECT THEORY AND HISTORY OF ART

The modules in the study subject THEORY AND HISTORY are composed as follows:

1st and 2nd semester BA (academic students) and MA (students concentrating on artistic subjects): one teaching event of student’s choice per semester.

For teacher training students and Master students concentrating on theoretical study subjects: one teaching event of student’s choice per semester.

From the 3rd semester, for all BA and MA students: one teaching event of student’s choice per semester.

In general: no credits are awarded for sole participation in excursions.

INTRODUCTION TO SCIENTIFIC WORK – ART CRITICISM AND ART HISTORY OF MODERNISM

Lecture: Art History (histories): From Modernism to the Present-Day – Part II (after 1945)
Th 15:30 - 17:00 (Auditorium, Room 229 LE)
Start: Th, 12.04.18
This lecture is primarily intended for first-year students, and will continue for two semesters.

A neon installation by Maurizio Nannucci asserts that “All art has been contemporary.” And yet this does not apply to “modern art”. Why is this? And who writes “art history,” anyway? This lecture will present and discuss artists, artistic movements, and institutions from the mid-19th century to the present day. It will begin with the break from the rules of academism, pausing at realism, impressionism, and expressionism, and will look at the emergence of abstract art. Other “stops” will include the Russian avant-garde, Dada and Surrealism, the totalitarian state art system of East and West, the revisiting of pre-war modern art in West Germany, and the post-1945 dominance of US art. The present-day will be reached via the release of creativity circa 1968, the wild 1980s, criticism institutions, globalization, relational aesthetics, and so-called artivism.

Seminar: Performance Art (in English)
Th 13:00 - 14:30 (Auditorium, Room 229 LE)
First session: Th, 12.04.18 (introduction)

Whether it’s Anne Imhof cutting a dash at the 2017 Venice Biennial, documenta 14 turning its press conference into a happening, or the transformation of Marina Abramović into a museum artist – there seems to be no way around performance these days. Anyone out there who remembers that performance art and art institutions were once deemed incompatible? That performance art had set out to undermine art’s commodification? Time to delve into its history and theory, to look at Happening and Fluxus, at feminist agendas and contemporary approaches, and last but not least at performance artists in former Eastern Bloc countries who worked under the radar of the official aesthetics.

Seminar: Censoring Art (in English)
Fr 12:00 - 13:30 (Room 213a/b LE)
First session: Friday, 13.04.18 (introduction)

“‘There shall be no censorship.’ Or so Article 5 of the German Constitution goes. Freedom of expression, however, hasn’t always been granted in this country and in many places still isn’t granted today. By the same token, the history of art is also a history of its prohibition. But what good is legal protection if there are many other ways to impede maybe not the production, but the presentation of art? What if sponsors threaten to withdraw their support, politicians to think about budget cuts? And what about social media with their guidelines and policies and control over what we see and what not? How should we respond to individuals or groups taking exception to a particular work of art, demanding for its removal, if not destruction? Do we need to re-negotiate the freedom of art or is it untouchable?

Seminar: An introduction to scientific writing
Fr 10:00 - 11:30 (Room 213a/b LE)
Start: 13.04.18, 10:00 (Introduction)
This seminar is primarily intended for students in their first year, and takes place in this form every semester.

Scientific writing sounds very much like a science in itself. However, for this precise reason, it can be learned. After all, every science follows rules and criteria. These will be presented and practiced in this seminar. However, it will also involve the voicing of very practical questions. How does one begin a text? What can be done about writer’s block? How and where does one do research, and how should citations be handled? How “personal” can a text be allowed to be? What other formats exist, and how should or could one use them? Participants will try all of these things out for themselves, and are therefore required to write shorter texts and to discuss them in the seminar.

MODULE – ART THEORY (BA), THEORY UND HISTORY (MA)

Lecture: Art and Reality – Aesthetic Behavior as World Appropriation III
Mo 16:00 (Auditorium, Room 229 LE), fortnightly
Dates: 16.04. /30.04. /28.05. /11.06. /25.06. /09.07.18

Does art have a relationship to reality that is its own, and, if it does, how is it distinguished from the relationship to reality of the sciences, philosophy, the media, and people in their everyday lives? Answering this question is easier than it may initially appear, provided that one agrees in advance on how ‘art’ and ‘reality’ are to be understood. Such an agreement need not be purely arbitrary, since both conceptual fields can be defined in a historically and philosophically grounded way.

In accordance with a variety of wishes, the lecture series from the past semester will be gone into more deeply, based upon specific examples. These specific examples will be provided by current or future exhibitions by the Bucerius Kunst Forum: the autumn exhibition on the birth of the art market in the Golden Age of the Netherlands; the spring exhibition concerned with Karl Schmidt-Rottluff’s interest in so-called ‘primitive art’ and the Anton Corbijn exhibition presented by the Bucerius Kunst Forum in the context of the Triennale der Fotografie, which, in its subtext, addresses the question: When does photography become art?

Curatorial Theory and Praxis
Mo 11:00 - 12:30 Uhr (Room 213 LE)
Appointments by arrangement

The themes for discussion will be questions of exhibition conception and implementation. The focus will be on exploring different exhibition formats, implementing curatorial concepts, and realizing artistic plans, taking into account questions of communication.

“Practical and theoretical reflecting of exhibition situations”
Dates: 09.04. /23.04. /07.05. /11.06. /02.07.18
each time 14:00 (Auditorium, Room 229 LE)

This seminar is intended to provide students with insights into curatorial exhibition praxis today, into artistic and theory in art history, and into the significance of contemporary visual presence. Exhibitions in the Deichtorhallen Hamburg, retrospectives of the work of great exponents of trends in American painting – Alice Neel and Peter Saul – and the photographer Alec Soth, and the exhibition featuring Francesco Goya, Sergei Eisenstein, and Robert Longo will be used as examples to provide deeper insights into current curatorial and artistic praxis through lectures, visits to exhibitions, and discussions with guests from the art world.

MODULE – PHILOSOPHY (BA), THEORY UND HISTORY (MA), SCIENTIFIC-ARTISTIC DEVELOPMENT PLAN (MA)

Seminar: On Philosophy of time
Th 14:00 - 17:00 (Room 11 LE)
Starts: 08.04.18

Seminar: The thinking of the “community”
Th 17:00 - 20:00 (Room 11 LE)
Starts: 08.04.18

Continuing the reading of texts by Jean-Luc Nancy, the intention is to open up a number of perspectives that also appear in texts by other authors under the heading of “being singular-plural.” To counter a “fundamentalist” construction of community-being that tends towards a “totalitarian” fusion, we will discuss texts that try to consider a differential constellation of the singulars. This seminar will feature texts by Foucault, Ranciere, Nancy, Deleuze, Vattimo, Lyotard, and Agamben.

How do I write as an artist?
Mo 16:00 - 20:00 (Raum 17 WA)
Start: 16.04.18
End: 14.05.18
This event is intended for students who understand text as part of their artistic work, and for those who regard writing as a pleasure as well as those who write because they have to.
This event is limited to 25 participants.
First come, first served!

How can writing be understood as part of artistic activity?
How might this writing move with the activity, instead of covering it over and fixing it? How does the text escape the gesture of knowing how the wind blows?
What price do I pay for puffing up my actions in writing?
Where does jargon begin? And what effect does using it have on my actions?
What happens when I write down what I am going to do?
Can a plan be described whose goal is to be missed?

WORKSHOPS AND LABS
Opening times: 10:00 - 17:00

The diverse range of artistic workshops available are a part of the university's unique profile. The workshops host events whose objective is for students to gain introductory applied skills and skills in handling materials for the relevant working area. Additionally, they enable students to realize their own projects from the areas of learning and research in terms of their specific material requirements. The ‘classical’ workshops are supplemented by labs with a media character.

Introduction to Audiolab
We, 11.04.18, 16:00 - 18:00 (Room 21 LE)
Duration: 2 days as block seminar
Number of participants: limited
Registration: in advance by email

An introduction to working processes in the Audiolab: using microphones and mixing desks, Becoming familiar with the available software, such as Nuendo and Ableton Live, for audio recordings and synchronizations. Following completion of the single-semester introduction period, the Audiolab can be used for your own projects.

LIBRARY

Workshop: Library
An introduction to academic working, especially literature and image research and literature and image referencing

Registration from 03.04.18
Tu 10:30 - 12:00 (Room 213 LE)
Max. number of participants: 12
The first meeting will take place on Tuesday, 17.04.18, at 10.30 in the library.
Please bring your own laptop!

Content: An introduction to the library and its sections; an introduction to the HFBK library website; examples of research using OPAC (Online Public Access Catalogue) and the databanks (Jstor, Art Source, Allgemeines Künstlerlexikon Online, Prometheus, ARTbibliographies Modern); support and assistance for student research in preparing for presentations and graduation work and in the contextualizing of one’s own artistic work; an introduction to a critical and differentiated way of working with different text types; support in targeted use of image databanks, monographs and exhibition catalogues to reflect on and discuss one’s own visual materials; correct citation in text and notes, with illustrations based on examples and individual advice; producing a bibliography, with illustrations based on examples and individual advice

Learning aims: Students will be enabled to independently research image material and literature corresponding to their themes and interests in library catalogues and databanks, and also to discuss them critically, including with reference to their own artistic position. Additionally, students will gain an understanding of how to correctly quote literature and systematically reference it in the notes and bibliography.
CAD (COMPUTER AIDED DESIGN)/3D

Project discussions
Fr 16:00 - 18:00

SketchUp - Part I
Fr 10:00 - 11:30
Participants: max 8 (additional students with their own Notebook: max 4)
Registration: by email to alexander.stickler@hfbk-hamburg.de

The intention is to develop an understanding of the structure and working methods of the program (polygon modeling) on the basis of the number of example projects. Following the developing of the fundamental tools and functions, we will go further by exploring possibilities for expansion by means of the large range of freely accessible plug-ins, parametric objects (“dynamic components”) plus various export options. Finally, we will look at working with the integrated additional program “Layout,” which allows models to be presented in a graphically prepared way.

Rhinoceros 3D - Part I
Fr 12:00 - 13:30
Participants: max 8 (additional students with their own Notebook: max 4)
Registration: by email to alexander.stickler@hfbk-hamburg.de

This course will teach fundamental knowledge of 2D construction and 3D NURBS (“Non-Uniform Rational B-Spline”) modeling, a method that is especially suited to precise production of multiple curved geometries. On the basis of small projects, we will develop methods of modelling with increasing complexity. Beyond modelling, students will learn further processing at the dimensioned CAD plan stage, and basic working methods with render engines.

Parametric Design/Visual Programming with “Grasshopper for Rhinoceros 3D” - Part I
Fr 14:00 - 15:30
Participants: max 8 (additional students with their own Notebook: max 4)
Registration: by email to alexander.stickler@hfbk-hamburg.de

This course is intended as an introduction to ways of thinking and working in parametric modelling. The principle of visual programming with the popular plug-in “Grasshopper for Rhinoceros 3D” provides an easy entrance to this that does not require knowledge of a programming language. Simultaneously, working with Grasshopper provides a deeper understanding of the function mode of Rhinoceros 3D/NURBS geometry. Experience of working with Rhinoceros 3D is an advantage for participants, but is not essential.

Workshop AutoCAD (Architecture)
Semester break (2x Fri & Sa, each meeting at approx. 6 hours)
Dates still to be announced
Participants: max 8 (additional students with their own Notebook: max 4)
If you are interested please send a message, for schedule coordination
Registration: by email to alexander.stickler@hfbk-hamburg.de

Since its first release in the late 1980s, AutoCAD has become the most widespread software for construction drawings, and the file format DWG has become the standard format in CAD. Over two weekends, a basic introduction to operating the program (which is not always intuitive) will be provided:
-2D construction, dimensioning, crosshatching, labelling, layouts and plots
-basics of 3D modelling in ACAD, presentation of Autocad Architecture program composition (construction in components: AEC walls, doors, windows, etc.)
COMPUTERS

The "interdisciplinary computer lab" focuses on techniques of bespoke digital and analogue media. Among other topics, we offer short introductions (block seminars) about various forms, software, and other aspects of media production. The lab is equipped with a variety of computers running OSX, Windows and Linux. A part of those run a current suite of 3D modeling software.

"Synthesizer DIY"
Th 17:30 - 21:00 (Room 243 LE)
No previous soldering experience required.
For practical reasons, the amount of participants is limited to ~10 people.
Using analogue and digital techniques, we design and build hardware usable as synthesizers / performance equipment / instruments / interfaces.

"Un(safe,secure) on the net"
This is a once-per-semester workshop for everyone concerned with safety and confidentiality while using the internet. We also discuss the current state of the art of consciously dealing with privacy and the (deliberate) loss of it.

"Audio synthesis with pure data"
The timetable for all one-off workshops will be announced on the door of Room 243 LE. If an application is required, a list will be placed next to the timetable a week before the course begins.
We can run an introductory workshop on working with the open source signal processing software pure data given enough requests.

DIGITAL TYPOGRAPHY AND GRAPHICS

The Digital Typesetting and Graphics workshop provides instruction in professional ways of working in the digital design process, especially in typography and classical graphic design. This encompasses instruction in skills and ways of working with digital graphics and typesetting programs used as tools in the design process. This involves practicing and gaining a deeper knowledge of the digital techniques, especially in project work in the context of seminars or in one's own work. The workshop’s equipment includes computer workspaces and scanners for reflection and transparency images, printers, large-format printers and a cutting plotter.
The workshop offers seminars on the manual skills required for typography and the use of Photoshop and Illustrator software:

THE WORKSHOP IS NOT A COPY SHOP!

The workshop is equipped for independent work on artistic projects, and this is how it should be used. The equipment, and particularly the printers, are digital typesetting tools, and should not be regarded as a copy shop service center. Anyone wishing to work independently in the workshop must have prior fundamental skills in operating computers and printers. Introductory sessions in using the workshop take place every first and third Friday in the month.

For further information concerning the workshop and courses, please check the information sheets at the workshop!

PRINTING TECHNIQUES
(Etching, Lithography, Digital, Hybrid Techniques)

A workshop for relief printing, gravure printing, flat printing, monotype, and digital printing upon rigid materials.
Mo - Fr 10:00 - 17:00 (Room 355 – 358 LE), except for those days on which other events take place
To discuss a project, please make an appointment by email.

In the workshop for printing techniques, one can develop and implement autonomous artistic projects predominantly concerned with graphical printing.
An experimental approach to the various techniques and media is welcomed.
In an advisory discussion, the working intention is discussed, and its implementation is jointly planned.

An introductory course in gravure printing, drypoint, and line block
24.04.18 - 26.04.18 each time 11:00 - 15:00
The number of participants is restricted to 8 persons.
On Wednesday the 18.04.18, a list will be put up outside Room 357 LE, on which you can enter your name.
Anyone who does not appear on the first day of the course at 11:00 will be replaced by a latecomer.

An introductory course in linocut
15.05.18. - 17.05. each time 11:00 – 15:00 (Room 357 LE)
The number of participants is restricted to 7 persons.
On Thursday the 07.12, a list will be put up outside Room 357 Le, on which you can enter your name.
Anyone who does not appear on the first day of the course at 11:00 will be replaced by a latecomer.

ELECTRONICS

In the Electronics workshop, students will be shown how to handle professional electronic tools and digital/analogue components by means of project supervision and courses. Research and experiments will enable students to learn basic skills, deepen their existing knowledge, and find new technological solutions. The goal is to provide quick and uncomplicated assistance in the realizing of projects.

Dates, events and information see notices by the Electronics workshop.

FINE METALWORK

Metalworking/Laboratory for metal casting
Mo - Fr 10:00-17:00 (Room K53 LE) except on the days on which other events take place.

Specialist practical instruction in working with tools, machines, and material. Specialist individual supervision for projects in seminar work by arrangement. The precondition for working in the workshop is taking part in an introductory course and separate special instruction in working with the machinery. The learning of knowledge and skills is intended to enable independent working. The intention is that you will likely carry out the practical implementation yourself. Providing work services is not included.

Workshop courses take place as block events. Dates and lists for enrolment will be displayed on the workshop information board (located next to the AStA) 14 days before the workshop course begins. Except for the January course, in which case this will take place 3 weeks previously owing to Christmas. Advanced certificates and credits can be acquired by completing a project largely supervised in the Fine Metal workshop.

Introductory courses:
Workshop courses take place as block events.

One-to-one discussions by agreement.
Reflection on the theory and practice of the analogue photographic image process, extending into connections with digital image and printing processes. It will be a question of working with the potential of the technology at a high level, both classically and experimentally. It is intended that getting to know the analogue darkroom process will prompt students to create individual images of their own, visibly implementing artistic ideas, some with the aid of experimental methods. Activities will include exercises for beginning students, complex laboratory processes for advanced students, and artistic projects.

Intersections – Seams
Directed by: Ute Janssen, Ulrike Wittern
Tu 14:00 - 17:00 (Room 131 LE)
First meeting: 03.04.18

Interdisciplinary project seminar: Textile Design/Silkscreen Printing/ Video
Content:
"Intersections" describes the boundaries between two states of a medium.
"Seams" describe places of connection between different areas, where they come together.
In our interdisciplinary workshop project, we will engage with the above-named phenomena artistically, theoretically, and practically. Following a phase of research, students can create treatments of their insights in video, textile design, and silkscreen printing.
It is planned that there will subsequently be a presentation of project results at the 2018 annual exhibition. The colloquium will be accompanied by guest lecturers on various aspects of the theme.

work, and paper processing.
In the publishing workshop, example drafts/dummies can be developed with specialist assistance and subsequently be independently implemented. The finding of suitable printing techniques and materials to print on, plus materials research, will be a factor. Experimental work is welcomed.

Workshops to accompany lecturing events.
All announcements, dates, and lists will be posted on the workshop information board in Room 154.

Multiplebox
Artist books, book objects and small print
Date: Wednesday afternoons
(Room 154 LE / Room 311, 312 in Armgartstrasse 24)
Precise details will be provided upon enrolment.

An artist book offers enormous freedoms in terms of working with the content, form, and also further aspects of handling. It is not subject to the principles and the functionality of the classical book, but can be adapted to artistic language without standard rules, and can be treated accordingly. The idea is that individual book forms and book objects should be developed in small print runs based on one’s own individual artistic approach to work. In the publishing workshop, example drafts/dummies can be developed with specialist assistance and subsequently be independently implemented. The finding of suitable printing techniques and materials to print on, plus materials research, will be a factor. This course is intended to allow you to pursue your own working approach. The plan is that the class will also look at artist books from collections, such as the Kunst-Participants should have their own chosen theme or particular category of content to implement in the above-mentioned manner.
You may participate only if you have previously registered by email with Claire Gauthier, Hannah Rath or Prof. Gesa Lange.

This course is a cooperation between Prof. Gesa Lange, Professor for drawing, HAW and Claire Gauthier and Hannah Rath, publishing workshop, HFBK Hamburg.
It is intended for students of all study subjects at the HFBK and the HAW, Department Design.

Intersections - Interfaces
Interdisciplinary project seminar: Textile design /Silkscreen printing/ Video
Led by: Ute Janssen, Ulrike Wittern
Tu 14:00 - 17:00 (Room 131 o. 230 LE)
Runs for 2 semesters WS17 / SS18
Number of participants: 14 (already allocated)
Start: 10.04.18

Content:
Intersections describe boundaries between two different states of a medium. Interfaces describe places of connection between different areas that converge. In our interdisciplinary workshop project, we will engage with the above-mentioned phenomena in artistic and theory terms, and in terms of praxis. Following a research phase, the results will be responded to in artwork, with the emphasis on video, textile design, and silkscreen printing. The results of these projects will be presented at the 2018 annual exhibition. The colloquium is accompanied by lectures by guest lecturers on various aspects of the subject.
FILM/VIDEO LENDING SERVICE
WORKSHOP CAMERA / LIGHT / SOUND

Opening times for lending out:
Mo - Fr, 10:00 - 14:00

Further courses will be announced early by notice (board in front of the workshop K4, UG Fi35).
MATERIALVERLAG

The Materialverlag is affiliated to the study subject Graphic Art / Typography / Photography. Fundamentally, our publishing house is a place for encounters and intersections – for creating books, always engaging with the tensions and energies of other areas such as photography, drawing, sculpture, painting, installation, theory...

Books now play an important role in almost every type of artistic praxis, whether their role is to represent this praxis – in the form of catalogues, documentations of working processes, portfolios etc. – or as a central constituent of the artistic praxis itself: in the form of a so-called artist book, in which case the author and designer are one and the same. This is precisely where the focus of Materialverlag’s work lies.

Because of its integration into the subjects of study at an art university, the Materialverlag is different to commercial publishers in that it sees itself as a laboratory. It is in a position to experiment – sometimes with the aid of various workshops – and to take time in order to formulate processes. Thus, it gives the up-and-coming artists and designers of the HFBK Hamburg the opportunity to transfer their artistic creation into the still tangible and vital space of the book. This allows them to test their own way of giving expression to the present era in relation to the audience for printed matter.

History

Ever since its founding in the early 1970s, Materialverlag has developed in its own way, characterized by the ideas and the spirit of individual periods and by the people who have brought their energies and abilities to our publisher’s work. In 2009, a detailed documentation of its work over more than three decades was produced, authored by the art historian Thilo Koenig. To date, more than 300 publications have been published by Materialverlag. Virtually all of these titles can be viewed in the HFBK Hamburg library.

Projects

A monthly open consultation hour will be held once a month during the lecture period to provide assistance and orientation in the development of new project plans. Information can be found at: www.materialverlag.de, link: “Termine”

For the discussion of projects, a focused presentation of the concept that is as informative as possible is required – text templates, sets of illustrations, sample pages prototype books … Experience has taught us that publications demand more expenditure of work and effort than authors might wish. Without punctual planning, passion, and personal commitment from the author and from publishers, any realization is doomed from the start.
